

When the FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program began publishing federal crime data for 2015, the first report in the fall of 2016 promised a fluid process that was committed to finding ways to present federal crime data and expand on it yearly. Making good on that promise, this UCR Federal Crime Data report has added additional data each year and framed the data to more closely fit the established UCR standard. Federal Crime Data, 2018, expands the series again with additional data from the Environmental Protection Agency Office of Inspector General (EPA OIG).

The Traditional Model of UCR

The concept of offenses known was adopted in 1929 by the International Chiefs of Police as the data that would be collected in the UCR Program. The aim was to get a true sense of crime in the nation. The UCR Program was designed to be an innate step for state and local agencies to report the crimes that were most common and most likely to come to the attention of law enforcement. However, because of the types of crimes federal agencies investigate, the way they investigate and build cases is often fundamentally different than that of state and local agencies. As a result, it has typically been difficult to fit the square peg of federal crime data into the round hole of UCR.

A few agencies, such as the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and several agencies within the U.S. Department of the Interior (DOI), investigate in ways similar to local or state authorities. These federal agencies have long reported data to the UCR Program. However, other federal agencies, the FBI included, found it more challenging to fit into the UCR model. This annual report was originally designed as a stepping-stone to finding ways to provide a similar transparency and access to federal crime data the UCR Program has brought to local, state, and tribal crime data for nearly 90 years.

Each year, Federal Crime Data moves closer to that goal. The arrest data from the FBI, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF), the United States Marshals Service (USMS), the Department of Justice Office of the Inspector General, and the EPA OIG have all been mapped to correspond to the UCR's National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS) offense codes. This makes the overlay of federal data with state and local data much easier. (Learn more about NIBRS.)

Federal Agencies Presenting Traditional UCR Data

The federal agencies (e.g., the DOI and the NIH) that have previously provided traditional UCR offense data and employee counts to the Program through established UCR Summary collection methods were, for many years, included in Table 11 and Table 81 of Crime in the United States. The data declaration pages, which help the user better understand the data, and the methodology used for these two tables are located in the Data Declarations and Methodology section at the end of this report.

Additional Federal Data

Comparability of federal data to state and local data

All crime data create some concerns regarding comparability. In UCR Statistics: Their Proper Use, the UCR Program cautions “There are many factors that cause the nature and type of crime to vary from place to place.” It is important for users of UCR data, including federal data, to avoid drawing such simplistic conclusions as one area is safer than another or one agency is more or less efficient than another based solely on crime counts.

The best approach to viewing the federal data offered in this compilation is to use it to gain an overall impression of the intensity of certain types of offenses within a specific area by overlaying the federal arrests in conjunction with the state and local information. As expansion of the data collection continues to occur, more details will become available from federal agencies, and these impressions will become more sharply focused.

Federal crime data are often different from state and local data, not only in their collection, but also in their generation. The UCR Program has built its traditional data collection on three triggering events common to state and local agencies. Offense information begins with either, first, a complaint of a victim/citizen or, second, the observation of a crime in progress by a law enforcement officer. A third trigger for data occurs when an arrest is made, and information related to that occurrence is reported.

For federal agencies, the initiation of investigation may be prompted in different ways. Many crimes, such as human trafficking and hate crime and their associated data, are brought to the attention of the FBI in much the same fashion:

- Reports from victims.
- Liaisons with other law enforcement agencies.
- Information about victims (e.g., human trafficking, hate crime) brought to the attention of the FBI by nongovernmental organizations.
- Reports from the media.

The decision to handle a crime as a federal investigation or as a local investigation is determined on a case-by-case basis. Some of the factors that enter into the decision for federal agencies to pursue an investigation are the available evidence, the availability of resources at the local level, and, in the case of hate crime, statutory provisions that determine whether the U.S. Attorney will accept the case as a federal one. In addition, some states do not have a hate crime statute under which to pursue a case. (Hate crime arrests at the federal level by the FBI will be available in the annual Hate Crime Statistics report.)

Why federal numbers are often smaller than those of other UCR agencies

As mentioned previously, federal investigations, by nature, often begin under different circumstances and proceed and conclude on different timeframes than investigations conducted by state and local agencies. Just as federal agencies often do not have traditional offenses known to report, they also typically do not have a number of offenses to report until a case has been built and an arrest or indictment has occurred. Perhaps most impactful on the federal numbers is the fact federal agencies often play a collaborative role with state and local agencies in crime investigations. Because the UCR Program has the “most local reporting” rule, which specifies the agency involved that is the most local jurisdiction should report the incident to the UCR Program, investigations and arrests that federal authorities have been involved with are often reported by state, county, city, or tribal agencies.

Why don’t the offenses in the tables match those presented in Crime in the United States?

Since its origination, this report’s aim has been to assimilate federal crime data into the UCR environment. UCR staff have been working since the beginning of this report series to align data from federal record-keeping systems with the UCR model. The 2016 edition of Federal Crime Data accomplished that by mapping federal data to NIBRS offense codes. However, Crime in the United States currently presents UCR data using the older Summary Reporting System’s offenses. Going forward, as the entire UCR Program moves to NIBRS by 2021, the national UCR staff will continue to strive to make the presentation of federal data more consistent with the standard of UCR.

United States Marshals Service (USMS)

This section provides federal data in the form of the number of arrestees by the USMS within judicial districts. The data are divided between two tables, one for arrests from federally-issued warrants and one for arrests from state-issued warrants. Users may download the entire Excel spreadsheet with the link below, or view tables (5a-5d) extracted from the spreadsheet for presentation here.

Data Declarations and Methodology

Federal Table 1

Offenses Known to Law Enforcement

by Federal Agency, 2018

Data Declaration

The FBI collects these data through the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program.

Important note about rape data

In 2013, the UCR Program initiated the collection of rape data under a revised definition and removed the term “forcible” from the offense name. The UCR Program now defines rape as follows:

Rape (revised definition): Penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or anus with any body part or object, or oral penetration by a sex organ of another person, without the consent of the victim. (This includes the offenses of rape, sodomy, and sexual assault with an object as converted from data submitted via the National Incident-Based Reporting System).

Rape (legacy definition): The carnal knowledge of a female forcibly and against her will.

General comment

This table provides the volume of violent crime (murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, rape, robbery, and aggravated assault) and property crime (burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft) as reported by federal law enforcement agencies that contributed data to the UCR Program. (Note: Arson is not included in the property crime total in this table; however, complete arson data were provided and appear in the arson column.)

Caution against ranking

Readers should take into consideration relevant factors in addition to an agency’s crime statistics when making any valid comparisons of crime among different agencies or locales. UCR Statistics: Their Proper Use provides more details.

Methodology

The data used in creating this table are from federal agencies submitting 12 months of complete offense data for 2018. The UCR Program publishes arson data only when an agency reports it for all 12 months of the calendar year. When the UCR Program determines an agency’s data collection methodology does not comply with national UCR guidelines, the figure(s) for that agency’s offense(s) will not be included in the table, and the discrepancy will be explained in a footnote.

Federal Table 2

Full-time Law Enforcement Employees

by Federal Agency, 2018

Data Declaration

The FBI collects these data through the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program.

General comment

This table provides the total number of law enforcement employees, total officers, and total civilians employed by participating federal agencies.

Methodology

The information in this table is derived from law enforcement employee counts (as of October 31, 2018) submitted by participating agencies. The UCR Program defines law enforcement officers as individuals who ordinarily carry a firearm and a badge, have full arrest powers, and are paid from governmental funds set aside specifically to pay sworn law enforcement. Civilian employees include full-time agency personnel such as clerks, radio dispatchers, meter attendants, stenographers, jailers, correctional officers, and mechanics.

Federal Table 3

FBI Number of Arrestees

by NIBRS Offense Code, by FBI Field Office, 2018

Data Declaration

The FBI collected these arrest data from the FBI's internal case-management system.

General Comment

This table (and its extractions, Tables 3a-3e) provides the arrests by FBI field offices for violations of sections of the U.S. Code.

Methodology

The data used in creating this table are from the arrest information reported as accomplishments in the FBI's internal case-management system. Data were not included for arrests made in joint investigations with other agencies when state or local codes were used nor for Human Trafficking cases when a different provision of the U.S. Code was used for the basis of arrest. These data include arrest by the FBI or task force for the following:

Population estimation

For the 2018 population estimates used in this table, the FBI computed individual rates of growth from one year to the next for every city/town and county using 2010 decennial population counts and 2011 through 2017 population estimates from the U.S. Census Bureau. Each agency's rates of growth were averaged; that average was then applied and added to its 2017 Census population estimate to derive the agency’s 2018 population estimate. The U.S. Census Bureau does not provide estimates for Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, and the U.S. Virgin Islands; for these locations, the actual 2010 decennial population counts are used.

Federal Table 3f
FBI Number of Arrestees for Child Exploitation
by FBI Field Office, 2018
Data Declaration

The FBI collected these arrest data from the FBI’s internal case-management system.

General Comment

This table provides the arrests by FBI field offices for violations of sections of the U.S. Code.

NOTE: This supplementary table was created because of the general interest in the topic of child exploitation. Data in this table were extracted from Tables 3(a-e), FBI Arrests. These child exploitation data were isolated from the offenses of Kidnapping and Abduction, Pornography and Obscene Material, Sex Offenses, and Human Trafficking in the larger Tables 3(a-e).

Methodology

Data were not included for arrests made in a joint investigation with other agencies when a state or local code was used nor for Human Trafficking cases when a different provision of the U.S. Code was used for the basis of arrest.

The data used in creating this table are from the arrest information reported as accomplishments in the FBI’s internal case-management system. These data include arrests by the FBI or task forces for the following:

Child Exploitation Arrests

Title	Section
Title 18 USC	1204 – International parental kidnapping
Title 18 USC	1462 – Importation or transportation of obscene matters
Title 18 USC	1466 – Engaging in the business of selling or transferring obscene matter

Title 18 USC	2421 – Transportation generally
Title 18 USC	2422 – Coercion and enticement
Title 18 USC	2423 – Transportation of minors

Population estimation

For the 2018 population estimates used in this table, the FBI computed individual rates of growth form one year to the next for every city/town and county using 2010 decennial population counts and 2011 through 2017 population estimates form the U.S. Census Bureau. Each agency’s rates of growth were averaged; that average was then applied and added to its 2017 census population estimate to derive the agency’s 2018 population estimate. The U.S. Census Bureau does not provide estimates for Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, and the U.S. Virgin Islands; for these locations, the actual 2010 decennial population counts are used.

Federal Table 4
ATF Number of Arrestees
by NIBRS Offense Code
by Judicial District, 2018
Data Declaration

The ATF collected these arrest data from the ATF’s internal case-management system.

General Comment
This table provides the number of defendants arrested in Calendar Year 2018 for an offense charged in Federal or State Court related to an ATF investigation. The data is grouped by the federal judicial district where the charges were recommended for prosecution - the actual criminal offense(s) being charged may have occurred in the same, another, or multiple judicial district(s). Many ATF defendants were arrested for more than one criminal offense. However, in compliance with National Incident Based Reporting System (NIBRS) requirements, this data reports the number of distinct defendants arrested and counts them only once in "the most serious offense category" as determined by ATF.

Methodology
The data used in creating this table are from the arrest information reported as accomplishments in the ATF's internal criminal case management system. These data include arrests by the ATF and its task force officers where an ATF recommendation for prosecution was submitted. ATF has aligned the violations found in the offense table in its criminal case management system to the most appropriate UCR offense code. These data include arrests by the ATF for the following:

Population estimation

For the 2018 population estimates used in this table, the FBI computed individual rates of growth from one year to the next for every city/town and county using 2010 decennial population counts and 2011 through 2017 population estimates from the U.S. Census Bureau. Each agency’s rates of growth were averaged; that average was then applied and added to its 2017 Census population estimate to derive the agency’s 2018 population estimate. The U.S. Census Bureau does not provide estimates for Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, and the U.S. Virgin Islands; for these locations, the actual 2010 decennial population counts are used.

Population estimation

For the 2018 population estimates used in this table, the FBI computed individual rates of growth from one year to the next for every city/town and county using 2010 decennial population counts and 2011 through 2017 population estimates from the U.S. Census Bureau. Each agency's rates of growth were averaged; that average was then applied and added to its 2017 Census population estimate to derive the agency's 2018 population estimate. The U.S. Census Bureau does not provide estimates for Guam, Northern Mariana Islands, and the U.S. Virgin Islands; for these locations, the actual 2010 decennial population counts are used.

Federal Table 7

DOJ OIG Number of Arrestees

by NIBRS Offense Code

by Judicial District, 2018

Data Declaration

The DOJ OIG collected these arrest data from their internal case-management system.

General Comment

This table provides the arrests by DOJ OIG judicial districts for violations of sections of the U.S. Code.

Methodology

The data used in creating this table are from the arrest information reported in DOJ OIG's internal case-management system. Data were not included for arrests made when state or local codes were used. Many DOJ OIG subjects were arrested for more than one criminal offense. However, in compliance with NIBRS requirements, this data reports the number of distinct subjects arrested and counts them only once in "the most serious offense category" as determined by DOJ OIG. These data include arrests by the DOJ OIG for the following:
