

HATE CRIME
STATISTICS

FOREWORD

Feelings of jealousy, desperation, greed, or hatred often motivate individuals to commit crimes. When bias against another person's race, religion, disability, sexual orientation, or ethnicity drives the criminal act, the offense is classified as a hate crime. Since the passage of the 1990 Hate Crime Statistics Act, the FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting Program has worked to establish a nationwide system for collecting statistics on bias-motivated criminal incidents.

Each year the number of agencies participating in the Program increases as the Nation's law enforcement community affirms its commitment to the Program. The data included in this report stand witness to that commitment. Over 11,000 law enforcement agencies have recognized that valid information is central to developing measures to combat crimes motivated by hate, and they are making impressive efforts to meet FBI reporting standards. Many of these agencies are conducting training programs to improve their officers' ability to identify and report hate crimes and to heighten their sensitivity to the personal anguish of victims and witnesses who may be apprehensive about providing information.

Even though lawmakers and the law enforcement community have taken a stand, hate crime by its very nature is difficult to combat. Knowledge about the nature, volume, and scope of hate crime in America may be the most important weapon in the struggle against it.

INTRODUCTION

In response to the passage of the Hate Crime Statistics Act of 1990, the Attorney General designated the FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program to develop and implement a data collection system for its voluntary law enforcement agency participants, numbering over 17,000. With the cooperation and assistance of several local and state law enforcement agencies already experienced in the investigation of hate crimes and the collection of related information, comprehensive guidelines for the compilation of hate crime data were established.

The Hate Crime Statistics Act was amended by the Violent Crime and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 to include those crimes motivated by a bias against persons with disabilities. In order to comply with this amendment, the FBI began collecting data on disability bias-motivated crimes on January 1, 1997. Also, the Church Arson Prevention Act, signed into law in July 1996, amended the Hate Crime Statistics Act by permanently extending the data collection mandate. The removal of the sunset clause from the original statute reinforces the FBI's commitment to making hate crime data collection a permanent part of the UCR Program.

Collection Design

The data collection effort is designed to capture information about the type of bias serving as the motivating factor, the nature of the offense, and the characteristics of the victims and offenders. When developing a reporting program, planners considered many factors. For example, they recognized that hate crimes are not separate, distinct crimes but rather traditional offenses motivated by the offender's bias. An offender, for example, may commit an assault because of his/her bias against the victim's race, religion, sexual orientation, ethnicity/national origin, or disability. It was, therefore, not necessary to create new crime categories. To the contrary, hate crime data could be obtained by collecting additional information about crimes currently being reported to the UCR Program. The bias motivations reported would be those specifically addressed by the Hate Crime Statistics Act, i.e., prejudice against a race, religion, sexual orientation, or ethnicity/national origin, as well as disability which was added in 1994. Because of the difficulty in determining an offender's subjective motivation in the commission of a crime, bias would be reported only after law enforcement investigation revealed sufficient evidence that the offender's actions were motivated, in whole or in part, by bias.

The Hate Crime Statistics Program has been endorsed by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the National Sheriffs' Association, the former UCR Data Providers' Advisory Policy Board (now part of the Criminal Justice Information Services Advisory Policy Board), the International Association of Directors of Law Enforcement Standards and Training, and the Association of State Uniform Crime Reporting Programs. These endorsements were crucial to the successful implementation of the program, for without law enforcement's voluntary data collection and support, any effort would be futile.

Training

Since the development of the hate crime data collection program, UCR staff members have provided training to law enforcement personnel in 50 states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. Territories. Personnel from state-level UCR Programs also conduct training in their respective states. Periodic training sessions continue to focus on the standard methodology used to investigate, recognize, and report hate crime.

Participation

In 1997, a total of 11,211 law enforcement agencies in 48 states and the District of Columbia participated in the Hate Crime Data Collection Program. Summary and incident-based data are sent to the FBI either through state-level UCR Programs (see Appendix) or directly from individual agencies in states without Programs. It is important to note that the agencies participating in the hate crime data collection program in 1997 represented nearly 223 million United States inhabitants or 83 percent of the population. While not all agencies are participating in the hate crime program, reports from those which are offer perspectives on the general nature of hate crime occurrence.

The collection of hate crime statistics at the national level will increase awareness and understanding of the problem. This effort will enable law enforcement agencies to better quantify their needs and allocate resources to the areas in which they are most essential. Law enforcement agencies have historically demonstrated progressive, professional competence in approaching criminal problems. Their response to the hate crime legislation is no exception, and participating law enforcement agencies are to be commended for their efforts in addressing this issue.

METHODOLOGY

Tables and narrative comments addressing the volume and types of bias-motivated criminal incidents reported to the FBI in 1997 are presented throughout this publication. The bias categories listed in the Hate Crime Statistics Act are race, religion, disability, sexual orientation, and ethnicity/national origin.

Criminal incidents can involve more than one offense, victim, or offender. For counting purposes, one offense is counted for each victim of a crime against person. One offense is counted for each distinct incident of crime against property and crime against society, regardless of the number of victims. The total number of victims in a given incident is the sum of victims associated with each offense that took place within the incident.

Hate crime data are collected on 11 traditional offense categories. Murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, forcible rape, aggravated assault, simple assault, and intimidation are classified as crimes against persons, while robbery, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, arson, and destruction/damage/vandalism of property are classified as crimes against property.

In the National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS), the enhanced UCR Program, the hate crime data element applies to all 46 Group "A" Offenses, which include the 11 traditional offense categories. The sum of the 35 Group "A" Offenses not listed are combined and reported in this document as other or as crimes against society, whichever is appropriate.

Hate crime data are submitted to the UCR Program by city, county, and state law enforcement agencies in various ways. For example, data are received on a hard copy Quarterly Hate Crime Report which consists of a quarterly summary and an incident report for each bias incident. Individual agencies or state UCR Programs using personal computers for data collection and storage may submit hate crime data on floppy disks. Agencies participating in NIBRS are able to include the hate crime data element in their submissions via magnetic tape.

The 11,211 participating law enforcement agencies in 1997 represented nearly 223 million United States inhabitants. The table on the following page shows the number of agencies represented within each population group and the extent of population coverage.

Section I contains tables showing the totals for the 11,211 agencies participating in 1997. The total number of hate crime incidents reported to the FBI in 1997 was 8,049. (See Table 1.)

Section II contains tables showing the levels of state participation, the population represented, the number of agencies submitting incident reports, and the total number of incidents reported. (See Table 12.) This Section also lists the counts of hate crime incidents reported by each of the individual law enforcement agencies that participated in the Program in 1997. (See Tables 13-18.) To be included in these tables, law enforcement agencies must have submitted data for at least one quarter of calendar year 1997. These figures, therefore, do not represent complete 12-month totals for every agency listed. Caution should be exercised in attempting direct comparisons of hate crime totals among agencies due to the many variables affecting the volume and type of crime from place to place.

SECTION I

Hate Crime Statistics, 1997

During 1997, a total of 8,049 bias-motivated criminal incidents were reported to the FBI by 11,211 law enforcement agencies in 48 states and the District of Columbia. Of the 8,049 incidents, 4,710 were motivated by racial bias; 1,385 by religious bias; 1,102 by sexual-orientation bias; 836 by ethnicity/national origin bias; 12 by disability bias; and 4 by multiple biases.

The 8,049 incidents involved 9,861 separate offenses, 10,255 victims, and 8,474 known offenders. (See Table 1.) Sixty-nine percent of the incidents involved only one individual (person) victim, while 95 percent involved a single offense type.

Offenses

Crimes against persons composed 70 percent of the 9,861 offenses reported. Of all offenses measured, intimidation was the most frequently reported hate crime, accounting for 39 percent of the total. Destruction/damage/vandalism of property accounted for 26 percent of all offenses, while simple assault and aggravated assault accounted for 18 percent and 13 percent, respectively. (See Table 3.)

Eight persons were murdered in 1997 in hate-motivated incidents. Racial bias motivated 5 of the murders, and sexual-orientation bias the remaining 3. (See Table 4.)

When examining offenses associated with racially-motivated incidents, 2,336 of the 3,838 anti-black offenses involved white offenders, while 718 of the 1,267 anti-white offenses involved black offenders. (See Table 5.)

Victims

Eight of every 10 of the 10,255 reported hate crime victims were individuals (people), while the remaining were businesses, religious organizations, or various other targets.

Sixty-seven percent of the 10,255 victims in 1997 were targets of crimes against persons. (See Table 3.) Nearly six of every 10 victims were attacked because of their race, with bias against blacks accounting for 39 percent of the total. (See Table 1.) Sixty-five percent of the 1,586 total victims of religious bias crimes in 1997 were targets of crimes against property. (See Table 9.)

Offenders

Law enforcement agencies reported 8,474 known offenders to be associated with the 8,049 incidents recorded in 1997. Of the known offenders, 63 percent were white and 19 percent were black. (See Table 11.)

Unlike victims and/or witnesses of crimes against property, those who witness or are victimized by crimes against persons are frequently able to assist law enforcement with the identification of offenders. Offenders were unknown for 2,791 or 35 percent of the incidents. Of the known offenders in 1997,

37 percent were reported in connection with the offense of intimidation. (See Table 3.)

Offenders involved in religious-bias crimes are difficult to identify because most of the crimes they commit are against property. Clearance rates are historically low for these types of crimes. Law enforcement identified only 792 offenders in connection with 1,385 religious-bias incidents in 1997. (See Table 1.)

Locations

In 1997, the majority of reported hate crime incidents, 30 percent, occurred in/on residential properties. Incidents perpetrated on highways/roads/alleys/streets accounted for 21 percent, while 11 percent occurred at schools/colleges. The remaining incidents were widely distributed among various locations. (See Table 2.)

<sup>3</sup> There were four multiple-bias incidents. Within these incidents, there were 10 offenses, 40 victims, and 3 known offenders.

SECTION II

Jurisdictional Hate Crime Statistics, 1997

A total of 11,211 participating law enforcement agencies provided 1 to 12 months of hate crime reports during 1997 to the FBI's UCR Program. The number of participating agencies by state, along with the corresponding population coverage, is shown in Table 12. The number of agencies recording hate crimes during 1997 is also indicated, as is the number of incidents reported by those jurisdictions.

The individual jurisdictional figures are presented in six tables delineating cities, rural counties, suburban counties, universities and colleges, state law enforcement agencies, and other agencies. The tables give the number of reported crimes motivated by bias against race, religion, sexual orientation, ethnicity/national origin, and disability. Fifteen percent of the agencies that participated in the hate crime program reported that at least one hate crime occurred in their jurisdiction, while the other 85 percent reported that none occurred.

Due to the many factors affecting the nature and volume of crime, care must be exercised in making any comparisons among agencies, even where agencies reported for similar timeframes. All factors must be considered before valid comparisons can be achieved.
